

Welcome

How do we attract the addict who still suffers to the fellowship of NA? We offer our experience, strength, and hope. Our message is powerful; "That an addict, any addict, can stop using drugs, lose the desire to use, and find a new way to live." Our Newsletter's purpose is to spread this message. Our local service committees share that same purpose. We invite you to read through these pages, get inspired, and get involved.

Step of the Month: Step 3 Experience

"We made a decision to turn our will and our lives over to the care of God as we understood Him."

I walked into the rooms of Narcotics Anonymous at 40 years of age. By that time, I had not only destroyed my own life, but the lives of my family and closest friends as well. My way of thinking and navigating through life had brought me nothing but pain and heartache. As a husband, and a father of five children, I had failed to accept that my addiction was spinning out of control until it was too late. I thought that I could handle it, and that I would eventually figure everything out. At one point I found myself sitting inside an Ohio state rehabilitation hospital on behavioral watch for attempted suicide. A few months later, I had my driver license suspended once again with a child endangerment charge on my own children. My life was spinning out of control, and I saw no way out. I could not stop using no matter how hard I tried, and no matter what the consequences were. I saw no way out but death, and that is exactly where my addiction had taken me.

My first introduction to Narcotics Anonymous was through H&I meetings and court ordered meetings. I had no idea how it worked or what to expect. I just knew that I was finally ready to try anything that anyone suggested to stop using and live a better life. I followed all of the suggestions that were given to me by other addicts in the meetings. I found a sponsor, got a homegroup, did service, attended meetings, got phone numbers, and completed step work with my sponsor. I attended meetings almost every day for at least a year straight, sometimes even two or three. I went to every social gathering and event that I heard about as well. For the first time in my life, I was not only staying clean, but I was becoming a contributing member of society. Continues on Page 3

WRITTEN FOR ADDICTS BY ADDICTS

I slowly began to believe in myself and even love myself again, only through the love and guidance of others in the program.

When I finally got to step three with my first sponsor, I was completely ready and willing to live life on lifes terms without using drugs. I had already gotten comfortable with my sponsor on step one and two, and a strong bond of respect and trust had developed between us. I believed in Narcotics Anonymous, and I also believed in the things that my sponsor had to say. My understanding of "being willing" to turn my life over to the care of God was quite clear. I was absolutely willing. The term "God" was not hard for me to understand. I already had a God of my understanding, I had simply turned my back on Him and took my own will back, trying to control all aspects of life with my mind and my own false sense of control. What I came to understand during step three was that I have no control over anything except my own thoughts, words, and actions.

What knowing this, and fully believing this actually meant for me was that anything and everything could happen around me at any time and I was only in control of my responses to those situations. My perception of control had completely changed. That meant that I now had to believe that something beyond me, and something greater than me, could have an effect on my life. My ability of control, in that moment, shrunk down to simply only me. The rest of my worries, doubts, fears, and concerns could all be placed on my higher power and on the God of my understanding. This freed me from the burden of trying to control the entire world around me, as well as, from my own emotional feelings of failure for not being able to do it in the first place. From that day on I realized that "running on the hamster wheel" was now a choice. I only had to focus on myself and just simply believe and trust the process of the world around me. Continues on Page 4

Today, thanks to Narcotics Anonymous, as long as I do everything that I can to the best of my ability and with my best intentions at heart, then I am free from the responsibility of how things turn out. My only responsibility after that would be how I react. The power of believing in and working on this step has completely changed my life as I know it today.

Tradition of the Month: Tradition 3

"The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop using."

This tradition establishes that NA is open to anyone who wants to address their addiction problem, regardless of background, beliefs, or circumstances. Unlike many organizations that might impose strict rules or prerequisites for membership, NA intentionally keeps its doors wide open, emphasizing inclusivity and simplicity. This tradition ensures that the focus remains on the shared goal of staying clean (just for today!) rather than on external qualifications or differences among members.

Historically, this tradition emerged from early debates about whether to limit membership (example, to exclude certain professions or require specific commitments), but the founders chose inclusivity to ensure the program's survival and broad reach. In the past, this tradition used to be stated as, "The only requirement for membership is the honest desire to stop using," but the word honest has been dropped out as it is subjective, and we don't assign or tell someone if they have the honest desire or not, this is up to the individual and all are welcome. Continues on Page 5

The importance of the Third Tradition lies in its role as a cornerstone of NA's accessibility and effectiveness. By requiring only a desire to stop using, it removes barriers that could discourage people from seeking help—whether those barriers are financial, social, religious, or otherwise. This openness fosters a sense of unity and equality within the group, reinforcing the idea that everyone struggling with addiction has a place in NA. It also protects the organization from becoming exclusionary, which could undermine its primary purpose of helping individuals achieve and maintain living clean.

To help uphold the Third Tradition, individuals can actively welcome newcomers without judgment and encourage an atmosphere of acceptance in meetings. This might involve sharing personal experiences to show that anyone with a desire to stop using, or simply listening to others without imposing conditions on their participation. Members can also advocate for the tradition by gently correcting any tendencies within a group to exclude or criticize those who don't fit a certain mold.

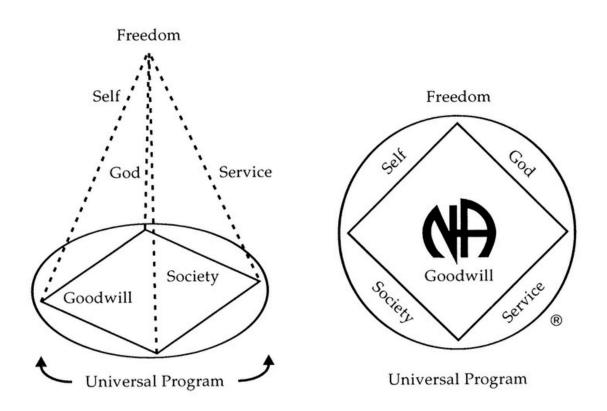

On a practical level, supporting outreach efforts—like making meetings available in diverse communities or online—helps ensure that anyone with that desire can find NA. The principle behind the Third Tradition is unity, and it was created to safeguard NA's mission by preventing division and elitism, reflecting the founders' realization that clean living thrives in a fellowship where all are equal in their pursuit of recovery. Concept of the Month: Concept 3

"The NA groups delegate to the service structure the authority necessary to fulfill the responsibilities assigned to it."

"In day-to-day matters, the groups have given our service boards and committees the practical authority necessary to do the jobs assigned them. This is not a blank check issued to the service structure; the group's final responsibility and authority, spoken of in the Second Concept, still apply. To make Concept Three work, we must carefully select trusted servants."

In Times of Illness, "Mental Health Issues"

In the Narcotics Anonymous program, every addict with a desire to stop using can be a member, and no member of NA need ever recover alone. Recovery is our common bond

"Anyone who reaches out for help is entitled to our compassion, our attention, and our unconditional acceptance. Any addict, regardless of clean time, should be able to pour out his or her pain in an atmosphere free of judgment."

IT WORKS: HOW AND WHY

We do not diagnose anyone's condition or track the progress of our patients—in fact, we have no patients, only members.

Our groups do not provide professional therapeutic, medical, legal, or psychiatric services.

We are simply a fellowship of recovering addicts who meet regularly to help each other stay clean.
